Pricing revealed for redesigned Mazda CX-5

Mazda has today unveiled pricing for the redesigned and redefined Mazda CX-5, on sale now.

Starting at $32,190, Mazda's best-selling SUV welcomes a new front-end design, and improves comfort and dynamic performance across the line-up, while highly specified grades will be more distinctly defined.

Mazda Australia Managing Director, Vinesh Bhindi, said the new model will better serve customer demand for self-expression, further expanding the SUV's appeal.

"Versatility is synonymous with Mazda CX-5, and this update bolsters that quality; more uniquely defined grades grow the potential for customers to find their perfect fit within the range, selecting the vehicle that best suits their style and lifestyle," said Mr Bhindi.

"It's a significant update for Mazda CX-5, which remains an Aussie favourite and a mainstay in the Mazda line-up, soon to be joined by the first of Mazda's new generation large platform SUVs arriving in 2022 – the Mazda CX-60.

"With vehicle supply returning to pre-pandemic levels, Mazda is well placed to meet customer demand for new Mazda CX-5 and other models."

The updated Mazda CX-5 applies matured Kodo Design principles, eschewing character lines in favour of reflective body surfaces. Common to all grades is a new signature wing and front grille design, plus headlight and taillight design changes, with each lamp featuring a pair of horizontally spaced, rectangular LED lights that create a sleek, eye-catching expression.

For the top end Mazda CX-5 Akera, a more luxurious exterior is achieved by replacing black plastic cladding with body coloured cladding, finished with bright silver wheels, and premium Nappa Leather to elevate the interior look and feel.

Black highlights proffer an invitingly sporty look for the second to top grade GT SP; the gloss black signature wing, grille, mirror caps and wheels are complemented by an all black interior with red accents.

Mazda CX-5 Touring Active will appeal to adventure-seekers. Best showcased in the new Zircon Sand Metallic body colour, exterior cladding on doors and front and rear bumpers imply an outdoor spirit, enhanced further by a lime green accent on the grille. Inside, the same lime green accents seat upholstery and air-conditioning louvres to carry through a sense of utility and SUV toughness.

Mazda CX-5 will also benefit from new generation technology; the seats have been redesigned to help provide greater stability, the driver will appreciate smoother acceleration with a more responsive and refreshed transmission, and improvements to the dampening control structure and increased frame rigidity help suppress unpleasant vibrations, reduce road noise, and provide a higher quality of ride comfort.

Further to this, Mazda intelligent Drive Select (Mi-Drive) will debut on Mazda CX-5, enabling the driver to select the most appropriate drive mode to optimise driving capability with one touch of a switch.

The updated Mazda CX-5 is on sale now.
